Peaches on the Tree & Blue and Yellow make Green

Paintings by the artists of Art For Well Beings are on exhibit at the Palo Alto Art Center. These 183 wonderfully colorful and emotional paintings express what words cannot.

Art For Well Beings is a studio in Palo Alto that provides a lively and original approach to painting for people with special needs. Based on the notion that all individuals have the potential to contribute through their art-making, founder/director/painter Judy Gittelsohn guides participants in playful yet rigorous art exercises. Through a foundation of positive routines, students paint together as they are exposed to art history, painting materials, and techniques in a safe and engaging environment. Each student is challenged to discover an individual approach. Every painting and painter is celebrated.

Two Receptions for the Artists
Thursday July 17, 2014
10 am - 12 pm - 5 pm - 7 pm

at the Palo Alto Art Center
1313 Newell Road  Palo Alto, CA